

CALL FOR PAPERS

Good Practices in Policies and Activities on Safeguarding and Promoting Traditional Crafts for Sustainable Development in Communities

www.unesco-ichcap.org

The International Information and Networking Centre for Intangible Cultural Heritage in the Asia-Pacific Region under the auspices of UNESCO (ICHCAP) is pleased to invite you to contribute to the gathering of exemplary programs on traditional crafts in your respective country.

ICHCAP has been committed to building a mechanism for effectively sharing information on intangible heritage; raising the visibility of intangible heritage through regional information use; and strengthening networks among communities, civil society, and related organisations. At the same time, it recognises the crucial role of incorporating intangible cultural heritage in accomplishing the 2030 Sustainable Development Goals as a driver, enabler, and guarantee of sustainable development.

Traditional craft, in the context of sustainable development, is emerging as a modern way of thinking otherwise. It has the potential to contribute to redefining and shaping a new economic model based not only on economic growth or livelihood in local communities but also on notions of self-actualisation, fulfilment, and levels of happiness. Traditional crafts can therefore provide insights for positive transformation, as they create the conditions for socially connected and sustainable places, strengthening local communities.

Currently, ICHCAP is working on a project that supports the promotion of traditional crafts and is gathering exemplary programs on safeguarding and promoting traditional crafts. The purpose of the project is to raise awareness of the significance of traditional crafts, strengthen the expert network among the relevant organisations, and serve as a reference to help each community develop its traditional crafts in a modern way.

Main steps under the project:

- Conducting preliminary study and gathering exemplary programs (good practices) in safeguarding and promoting traditional crafts
- Promotional Activities: developing promotional materials, expert workshops, etc.
